Bengaluru: Taiwanese contract manufacturer Foxconn, which has lined up a Rs 22,000 crore outlay in Karnataka that includes a manufacturing unit near Doddaballapura, is expected to generate 40,000 direct jobs in the state. Foxconn chief Young Liu, who flew into the city from Delhi Friday, said the unit in Karnataka is expected to become the second-largest Foxconn plant after its China unit.

Liu said: "It will create 40,000 direct jobs, especially for mid-level educated individuals, and our investment will not stop here. We plan to explore other sectors also. If there is mutual trust, anything can be achieved."
